Also, attached is the outline of Appendix 1 material. Tara and I talked to Steve McDow about the content, and he mentioned the importance of getting feedback from peer input on what topics are especially relevant (this is one of the charge questions). They seem to have a good plan, but any feedback would be helpful for them.

FRN should be published this week. Not as early as we'd hoped, but still with enough time for public to know and listen in.

Re: CASAC, yes there have been lots of interest/conversations. We can discuss in more detail later, but I agree that we should just keep focusing on what we're doing now.

Thanks for the concise summary.

Is the FRN going to be published on time for the public to know they can listen in?

As I think everyone has heard, CASAC is not forming an ozone panel - just the chartered members will review the ozone and PM ISAs - there may be interest from the peer input experts et al about the next steps. We should stick with the review discussion as planned and not get into discussion about the decisions about subsequent CASAC review of the ISA. Just stick to the topic at hand ie have we identified and are evaluating the important studies...

As for meeting tomorrow, unless others want to meet I think we can skip this week. I know Tom and Steve are traveling and I'm available by phone. Please send a cancellation.

Thanks

John

Subject: ozone meeting tomorrow?

Hi all,

We don't have a lot of discussion items for this week for ozone (more fact-finding and to-do at this point), and Tom and Steve are both out of the office. Would you like to cancel the meeting?

A couple of points worth mentioning:
